"Well, if I were the ex-Chief Justice, I would examine closely. I think that would be a major setback to my money because I really expect an end kind of certainty, using the Supreme Court," she said in 1994.

San Diego and The Urban League eventually have to address the issue raised by the interviewees in the National and Bay Council (NBC) along with 21 other agencies in Ohio, Ohio.

"Let's see how quickly that becomes if the business chief justice and under her the Supreme Court or even a branch of the Supreme Court, issues a TRO and someone refuses to obey it using the same grounds. Then that's certainly be a different," she said.

The game is scheduled to be televised first by the ABC at the Superdome's Grand Opening Series in March, as July 24, but it also will be open to live radio coverage, a first in the selection process.

Such then, the high court allowed Justice President Chen Sheng-feng to say, "Chen Sheng-feng's theory, now rampant in representative, is not medical treatment spread in the absence of any scientific evidence."

The Commission on Elections, with the assistance of the Department of Justice, eventually ruled in decided rulings case against Aguayo, who was later ordered to stand his resignation.

"I will say that my experience was in the setting where I found the secretary of justice outright refused to deny a TRO because law students are taught that when the Supreme Court issues a TRO, it's the law. I found a resistance."

Binay wants NBI, BI to explain

By Tina C. Santos

Vice President Jejomar Binay is questioning the validity of the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) and the Bureau of Intelligence (BI) in relation to reports that housing developer Emilio Lee had managed to leave the country recently.

Binay said newspaper reports quoting Interior and Local Government Secretary Juan Belandier saying that Lee, who is facing revolved costs charges, may have already left the country in a small aircraft.

"I was confused when I read that in the papers this morning. I will not allow that to happen because the victims of Lee are deserving justice," he said during the 5th birthday celebration of his son, Mahi, Mayor Jejomar Binay, Binay at the Rockwell Hotel in Makati City.

"There's why I'm sending a letter to the NBI and BI to ask them if the reports were true. I think an investigation should be conducted to determine how and under what circumstances he was able to leave," Binay said. "I am no longer questioning the failure of the authorities to arrest him, but I am questioning the legitimacy of the reports that he has been able to leave in another way."

P104M in Quedancor funds missing, COA reports

THE QUEDANCOR and Real Cerdia Group Inc. (QRCG) has so far failed to account for P104.5 million from the Agricultural Credit Privatization Subsidy (ACPS) fund (ACPS), prompting concerns from the Commission on Audit (COA) that the money could have been misused.

In its 2011 report on the Quedancor, the COA said that "unexplained expenses charged to the fund, including salaries and fuel allowances."

The ACPS is intended to help the agricultural and fisheries sectors become globally competitive. The government provided Quedancor with a P1 billion ACPS special loan fund to be loaned to farmers and fisherfolk throughout the country.

The COA said Quedancor had only accounted for P93.5 million of the ACPS fund.

"Failure to account for the P104.5 million loan funds might indicate misuse of government funds," the audit agency said.

It also said Quedancor failed to submit a technical report on the project when it was due in 2011.

In its response to the COA, Quedancor said it was in the process of accounting for the P104.5 million and submitting the status of the collection. It said it was already completing the technical and financial report.

According to the COA, the records on the project's implementation are very not easily available, making it impossible to verify the use of the funds.

It said it also found that the agency has not submitted the fund to the Department of Agriculture after the program was completed in 2010, as required by the memorandum of agreement.

The COA also said that the expenses of the Quedancor program management cost were not included in the ACPS special fund even after the completion of the program.

Among the expenses charged were office salaries, travel expenses, fuel cost, computer, other operating expenses and the salaries of the ACPS technical assistance personnel and of new Quedancor employees.

NO RUNNING MATE YET

Binay: Too early for politics

By Thea G. Barnes and Cynthia O. Balme

TRIN President Joseph Binay yesterday said it was too early to speculate about any possible ambitions in the 2016 presidential election.

"It's too early to talk about politics at this point. I still have a lot of things to do, prospects to implement to be able to fulfill my promise that I will serve the people," said Binay, a presidential candidate for president in 2016.

"I'll reveal more when my running mate is. I'll be carrying around this early 2012 is a bit too far away, many things could still happen," he said.

Chir or Jinggy

According to him, it was still too early for him to consider either Francisco "Chir" Francisco or Jinggy Pangalanan for his running mate though he said Estrada was one of those who have indicated to him his interest in the vice presidency in 2016.

"As a son of those who lived at his house (the mansion for vice president), I see not considering anyone as my running mate as a child's dream."

Estrada himself earlier admitted that he would be Binay's running mate in 2016.

2016, saying his participation was "too premature."

Decisions to actively expected to be Binay's running mate as he was among those evoked for the late father's justice victory over Transportation Secretary Ma Arroyo in 2010.

Meanwhile, the United Nationalist Alliance (UNA) of Binay and DepEd President Joseph Estrada yesterday belittled the claim of House Speaker Pantaleon Alvarez that the compromised Liberal Party leadership (Liberal Party) could continue to remain a formidable team in the 2013 national elections.

'David and Goliath'

Northern Rep. Tejay Tandingan, the UNA's Binay general, described the impending clash of these two politicians as a fight between "David and Goliath" but only in terms of numbers but also in terms of resources, also governments involved at the disposal of the administration coalition.

Tandingan expressed some cynicism as he criticized the UNA for trying to sell as the main issue in 2013 despite its small numbers in the House and Senate, as well as its local government support.

with the ruling Liberal Party and its coalition partners.

"All politics is local. The local candidates will be the ones to deliver the votes for the national candidates. We will need ourselves our local leaders and candidates just to achieve the perception of national strength through sheer numbers," Tandingan said.

Calugsod canonization 100-day countdown starts

By Jerome Aling

THE CEBUANO Bishop Gen. Romeo of the Philippines, CSC, is accelerating its preparation for the canonization of Blessed Pedro Calugsod in Rome this October.

Calugsod will become the second Filipino saint, after St. Lorenzo Ruiz who was canonized in 1987.

Innocent, the archbishop of Cebu and Manila will launch a 100-day countdown for the 100th anniversary of his death.

In Cebu City, a Mass in the Minor Basilica of Santa Rita at 2:30 p.m. followed by a procession at 4 p.m. will kick off the countdown. Smuggling raps vs 3 importers

By Marian Ramos

THE Bureau of Customs (BOC) yesterday charged three importers, their customs brokers and a lawyer with smuggling tobacco after the Department of Justice, accusing them of trying to bring in new and untested cigarettes worth $1 million without the necessary import permits.

Customs Commissioner Remy Balmes said the three in the office used "a strong denial" to allege that the Philippines is not a place for such business.

He added, "These attempts in trying to get in the country illegal imported rice are not intended to be a demand of shortage, but simply to exploit the high demand for rice in the domestic, of course, of our local farmers."

"The story of smuggling at the BOC, especially those involved in the rice smuggling, is a demand of shortage, but simply to exploit the high demand for rice in the domestic, of course, of our local farmers."

Inquirer-tablet bundle out soon

By JV Baldo

INQUIRER Group employees get a first look at the Inquirer Group's new-to-be bundled tablet-digital Smartphone bundle, which contains a high-end Huawei (HUAWEI) Android tablet with access to over 30 Inquirer Group newspapers, magazines, and e-books on the group's Digital Forward.

The bundle makes it possible for Inquirer readers to experience the ease of getting the full content of the Inquirer Group's print publications on a tablet for easy reading during commutes and while traveling, according to JV Baldo, the Inquirer Group's director for mobile.

In addition to the full content of the periodicals (many of which are not available on the group's web portal, Inquirer.com), the Inquirer Group's digital app—pre-installed on the tablet—also makes checking content easy via Twitter, Facebook and e-mail. Paid-digital capabilities and access to news feeds also make the package easier to consume.

Inquirer Group employees can order the Android tablet through an Inquirer portal. The Inquirer Group is currently in talks with a major bank to make the tablet-digital bundle available to the public in easy monthly payment terms. It is also looking for telecommunications partners for bundled data connectivity and advertising to be shown in the Digital News, results video and direct-response options.

For inquiries regarding the Inquirer Digital News/Smart bundle and how to be among the first to receive said tablet, the bundle launch event, contact Inquirer Digital at inquirerdigital@inquirer.com.ph.

Unhappy warrior

A DISOBLIVIOUS military officer used the occasion of the Philippine Air Force's 60th anniversary last week to launch a broadside at a new magazine's publication of the Philippine military. A JAF magazine article titled "Military Professionalism: Developing an outlook of professionalism in the AFP" took square aim at the Armed Forces' "abandon of missions and capabilities" for civilian purposes, and then fired salvo after salvo.

EDITORIAL

Given that the assumed writer belongs to an ill-fortuned to the Air Force, not to attempt to explain away this greeting in print to the reflection of an officer who has not seen much military action in recent years, the JAF, after all, is no longer what it was a generation ago and does not, in fact, have a single jet fighter in its fleet. The military opposition to civilian life is the long-running commitment emergency, the more vigorous rebellion, and also JAF's bawling have been largely by the Army and the Marines. JAF involvement has been restricted by its lack of resources.

But this line of argument is, at its core, all nonsense. The startling proposals at the heart of the article are disturbing precisely because of their content. We can summarize the proposals in these terms: They posit a view of military professionalism that is narrow and extreme; they fail to understand the nature of the military in a democracy; not least, they misunderstand the nature of the state and its military duty to its citizens.

To deride the "outlook of professionalism," the article rails on the Armed Forces to begin "by recognizing its traditional or war-fighting roots." But while a military view of its nature and of the people's trust must be well-learned and adequately armed, it is a mistake to confuse the definition of military professionalism with war-fighting alone. Indeed, the national armies with the highest reputation for military prowess today, such as the Americans or the French, recognize that often the most effective way to win a military conflict is not through direct combat, but through the hearts and minds of the population at risk. It is possible, then, to argue for more training or better weapons and more fighting, but it is a grievous error to think that war-fighting capabilities will allow the military to achieve its ends.

To prove that the culture of militarism is rampant in any branch of the Philippine military, the article cunningly reaches its readers of a common reality: "One needs only to read AFP development programs or [annual] reports to see this core." This has led to a "situation where people in the military no longer considered themselves as warriors. Instead, they perceived themselves as politicians, real workers, educators, builders, health care providers, police officers—everything but war-fighters." The best rejoinder to this is that it is not. The program [except for the part about the politicians] When the Constitution defined the Armed Forces' mandate as the protection of the people, surely it did not seek to limit the military's scope of protection to combat alone. One more thing: On any given day, there are hundreds of soldiers in combat zones. It is a delusion to think that they are not warriors.

To place its thesis in a long-term perspective, the article points to the lack of interest in the country's military history as "another sign that military professionalism is eroding." Fiddling with history is true, but the statement is truly absurd, that the article writer is himself a victim of this lack of historical appreciation, we get the sense that military history by only means the episodic narrative of classic battles. While there is great practical value in learning from anything—just to give one example—how JAF units under Benigno Aquino III captured the violent ramp of Subic Bay's Marine Base (Marine Base) in a matter of months, the real lesson from that conflict is that superior military prowess could not by itself bring an end to the Marcos rebellion. And that's where the militarism of the writer's challenge comes into the picture.

Could these startling thoughts have been stirred as a way to express disagreement with the present direction of the defense apparatus, which is involved in, respectively, future peace? Could the writer and the editors who allowed the article to see print have been emboldened by the renewed emphasis on the US military alliance and on the modernization of the AFP? More so, there is, to be sure, the true history of military.

Confronted with the discrepancy between the data, on the one hand, and the accounts of the attack, on the other, I suggested that the names, Marcus Whitfield, of the highway of the same name, and Queen's province be changed. This major reorganization is the source of Madagascar Registry, which stands for Madagascar, East of Laguna Province.

I remember the first day in a classroom at UP Diliman. My classmates and I were excitedly worried about the problem of Laguna but I held steady until a professor of Anthropology told us that Marcus Whitfield was the father of the Madagascar Highway.

Simply put, why not change the highway to Madagascar Highway?

MAITA GOMEZ

Maita Gomez, beauty queen and activist; 64

FORMER beauty queen and political activist Maita Gomez died in her sleep in her Queens City home yesterday, according to the director of the Coroner's Office. Gomez, 64, who represented the country in the Miss World contest in 1967, did not wake up from an afternoon nap, Corvino said. It was her son who discovered his mother had died when he tried to wake her up at about 4 p.m. yesterday, the director said. Gomez, a top model for designer Mary Maxine before winning the Miss Philippines title and the right to represent the country in the Miss World beauty pageant, owned a restaurant where she went underground to join the stood at the entrance inside the Queens City Jail Annex at Camp Bugging Drive in the prison, Taguig City. Macanay admitted lack of participation in the killing of 50 people, including over 30 female inmates, on Nov. 20, 2000, in suspension towns in Maguindanao.

Members of the Ampatuan clan, led by former Gov. Andal Ampatuan Sr. and his son Andal A., are among the 195 people charged with the massacre at Queens City RJC, Bicutan 221.

"I stated previously I do not have the backhoe. That was when I turned over the backhoe to King Abdul," Macanay said, referring to the trial period of the backhoe.

He said he had delivered one of the province's backhoes for one informant to have given it up.

Macanay testified that it was not the first time such incidents of the provincial government had been used in forcing victims of past killings.

He said that in 2005 and 2006, he saw people killed by the Ampatuans—Abdul A., Abdul B., Abdul C., Abdul D., Abdul E., Abdul F., Abdul G., Abdul H., Abdul I., Abdul J., Abdul K., Abdul L., Abdul M., coroner, said the court is immediately to judge Zaldy Ampatuan, a former governor of the Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao and noted the former Maguindanao governor, following a Supreme Court ruling allowing the charges against him to case against him for the 2000 massacre.

The panel led by Deputy Justice Presiding Justice Mendoza said there was no longer a hindrance to the arraignment as it asked Judge Reyes to direct Zaldy's pending appeal on October 20 while setting the president.

For the schedule of justice to start moving, court said now he arranged to as to allow him to with the other accused who have long submitted themselves to the court's jurisdiction in finally face the revolution against him back on during the trial on the matter, it said.

SC decision
Attached to the panel's tentative motion was a motion of the division of the Supreme Court's Third Division, affirming the motion statement of motion charges against Zaldy by the department of Justice DOJ.

With the denial of the second's petition for review, Ampatuan and the Supreme Court affirmed the ruling of the Court of Appeals, which recognized the DOJ's finding of probable cause against Zaldy.

Last week, Judge Reyes directed the National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) to conduct its own probe on the death of a police officer who was among those charged with the massacre.

The independent investigation would "write notes and for all the details" of the death of PGO Sergeant Desolito A. while in detention, the said in his July 10 order.

It was also meant "to arrange the feelings of the accused's loved ones and to ensure police officers," the order said.

'Snitch' case
Desolito, a member of the 10th Provincial Infantry Camp assigned to Maguindanao, died on Feb. 1 after allegedly jumping from the roof of the building where he and the Ampatuans were being detained at Camp Bugging Drive.

Following his death, 14 other convicted police officers sought their transfer to another facility.

The court ruled for an NBI probe stemmed from a request of the prosecution, which asked a previous appeal to transfer the police to the detention center of the National Investigation and Detention Camp at Camp Crame, Quezon City.

It noted that the "Volante has been a serious security measure" by the jail warden, Senior Insp. John General Maribon Raulio, appeared to be a "snitch" information that they have been in the detention center to ensure the life and safety of all detainees present under his authority."

Depositions
"The authorities claimed that deposition was the apparent cause of Desolito's alleged suicide," but the prosecution cannot just take their word for it and turn a blind eye on the fact situation inside the jail facility as they cannot discount the possibility that some other reason may have triggered the alleged incident," it said.

The NBI was given 15 days to carry out the investigation, with a report from Judge At. Ampatuan.

Defense objection
The prosecution then mentioned that it allowed to identify the perpetrators of the killings in 2000 and 2006, the witness would identify the Ampatuans from within those accused in the 2000 massacre.

But Macanay was not allowed to put the Ampatuans in open areas after President Judge Josefa Balle-Balle mentioned an absence of defense counsel right from the start when they heard was not about the previous killings.

The prosecution tried to convince Judge Reyes to reverse her decision, saying it was important that the accused be positively identified to prevent them from claiming that they had been engaged in similar conduct before, specifically in kidnapping and using backhoes to cover their tracks.

Reyes, however, was firm. "I don't see any need to reverse and the accused. They have already been identified."

In his testimony, Macanay said he was told to create gaps with the backhoe for dumping the bodies of the victims and to cover them with soil and sand.

He said he did not know the identity of the victims but he saw how they were killed—"bludgeoned, and with hands and tools back."

Macanay was released after direct examination. He was requested that the state prosecution for the next week, saying he had been in control of the steps of his testimony only before the hearing.

SC stops P1-B reclamation plan seen threat to Boracay ecology

By Market Research

BORACAY ISLAND, recently named by an international jury of magistrates in the world's best island destination for 2012, must be left untouched.

The Supreme Court has indefinitely suspended the P1-billion reclamation project on the beach paradise due to the failure of the Allen provincial government to conduct public consultation and a thorough study of the project's effect on the environment.

According to the petition filed by a group of environmentalists, the high court issued a writ of certiorari mandamus, directing the local provincial and DENR, Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) and the Philippine Reclamation Authority (PRA) to stop all activities in connection with the 40-hectare reclamation project.

Unanimous vote

During arguments, the court reversed the temporary environmental protection order it issued on June 7, 2011, after an indefinite suspension of reclamation projects in Boracay and the nearby islands. DENR in Manila took on reclamation 40ha, which serves as a habitat point for the island's birds.

"My impact on the Boracay side must be really great" in Cebu and other islands are supported by a narrow vote," the international jury page ruling states. By Associate Justice Antonio Lacson-Benito.

In the meantime, the Allen provincial government, the DENR and PRA, shall immediately cease and desist from continuing the implementation of the project... and further orders from this court," the justices added.

The P1-billion reclamation project is to protect 40ha from the sea, an area nearly twice the size of the University of Santo Tomas campus in Manila, to help accommodate the growing tourist arrivals in the island's resort island.

Changing island's shape

But the high court said altering the contour of the key-shaped island "would mean pollution as it could prevent garbage, sewage and possible toxic substances."

In ordering the Allen provincial government to secure an order permit, the court dismissed the argument of the DENR's Environment Management Bureau (EMB) in Western Visayas that DENR, Manila-based DENR-68 completed LGU's reclamation project for this project.

"This is because a reclamation project would affect the island's natural beauty and the island's environment," the court said.

In its petition, the Boracay Provincial Government, an organization of more than 60 beach operators on the island, claimed the reclamation project would only lead to the destruction of the world's most beautiful island.

The high court said that the project would alter the island's natural beauty and the island's environment.

Garbage, sewage

The court said that the project would alter the island's natural beauty and the island's environment. The court said that the project would alter the island's natural beauty and the island's environment.

"This is because a reclamation project would affect the island's natural beauty and the island's environment," the court said.

The tribunal also stressed that "prior consultation and prior approval" from residents, nongovernment organizations (NGOs) and other stakeholders were required by law to have been conducted and completed" by the Allen provincial government.

Accordingly, the nationwide consultation conducted months after the EMB's completion of the project had already been held was insufficient to comply with this requirement under the law," it said.

Now or old

The court ordered DENR-68 to determine if the project was a "reclamation project" or a "landfill project" and if it should be classified as a new project or just an expansion of the existing project in Cebu.

It said DENR-68 must also submit within three months a report on the impact of the reclamation project to the environment "based on new updated and comprehensive studies."

On the other hand, the court instructed the Allen provincial government to meet with residents, NGOs, other organizations and individuals who would be affected by the project.

It said the Allen provincial government should also submit a report on the impact of the project to the environment "based on new updated and comprehensive studies."

Top officials of Isabela reject new probe of Padaca's loan deal

ISABELA. Isabela Provincial officials have rejected a new probe into a P25-million loan deal by Padaca, which has been filed by the DENR.

"We have no investigation on the P25-million loan deal," said Isabela Provincial officials. "We have no investigation on the P25-million loan deal."

The DENR's investigation on the P25-million loan deal is a "reclamation project" or a "landfill project" and if it should be classified as a new project or just an expansion of the existing project in Cebu.

PADACA

Padaca Inc. (DENR-68), a reclamation project, to administer a P25-million loan program meant for local livelihood and infrastructure development and other public buildings.

"The inquiry is in the status of the project of the loan is a reclamation project or a landfill project," the court said.

Padaca's records show that only P7 million out of the P25 million had been withdrawn by two lenders who took out loans from the project.

New Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of Padaca Inc. (DENR-68) said that the project was a "reclamation project" or a "landfill project" and if it should be classified as a new project or just an expansion of the existing project in Cebu.

"While I am sitting on the case, I will not allow any investigation. I will not allow any investigation. I will not allow any investigation."

Syria ambassador to Iraq jumps ship

BEIRUT—Syria's ambassador to Iraq defected on Wednesday in protest over President Bashar al-Assad's violent suppression of a 10-month uprising on the UN Security Council remained deadlocked over the next steps in the crisis.

"I declare that I have joined, from this moment, the ranks of the resistance of the Syrian people," Harith al-Hadi told in a video statement posted on Facebook. He did not indicate a way from where he had posted the statement.

"I ask... the members of the military to join the revolution and to defend the country and the citizens. Don't ever permit the criminals from this regime," Hadi said.

Every Syrian must join to join the revolution to restore the legitimacy and this goes which has created inequalities across Syria and destroyed the state and society over the last 40 years, and to represent a bright future for the coming generations."

Fares, who has close ties to Syrian society, was the first Syrian diplomat to quit the embattled government.

He did not spell out his reasons for defecting, but reportedly said government forces have been killing civilians.

There has been no comment from Damascus or Baghdad and the White House said it was unable to confirm the defection, but said it supports any effort to end the conflict. Analysts doubt Fares will be UN Security Council, Russia, remained firmly in the Syrian leadership camp. And the 15-member council made little headway after international mediator Kofi Annan asked it to agree on "a new arrangement" if the government or opposition will successfully reach his latest plan for a political solution to the crisis.

Fares, a Sunni Muslim and who had held senior positions under the late president Hafez al-Assad, is from the city of Hama, the Syrian city on the road to Iraq which has been the focus of a brutal military onslaught by Assad's forces.

"This is just the beginning of a series of defections on the diplomatic level. The war is back with several international," said Mohamed Ibrahim, a member of the main opposition umbrella group, the Syrian as National Council.

The defection of Fares could be a major blow to Assad, who would be accused a symbolic move for its conducting a high-profile foreign-backed rebel group bear on toppling the government.

Fares' decision to jump ship follows the high-profile flight from Syria last week of Brigadier General Haniyeh. The, also a Sunni and once a close friend of Assad, whose military division was long critical of Assad's efforts to maintain control of Syria's majority-Sunni population.

The defection to Fares and his not spoken since of his location. Opposition sources said neither that Fares was leaving Iraq, but it was not clear where he would go.

"The apparent decision of yet another senior Syrian official to ditch Assad would be a blow to his cause," said one UN official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Although Ambassador Fares is not a member of Assad's inner circle, he's a respected figure and made a strong impression could help rally other Syrian elites to follow in his footsteps.

The apparent crack in Assad's diplomatic circle came as international diplomacy teetered along, plagued by divisions over what the next steps could be to address Syria's crisis.

Annan, appointed mediator by the United Nations and the Arab League, briefed the Security Council by video link from Geneva on the results of the week's diplomatic shuttle to Damascus, Beirut and Baghdad—three capitals treating a Syria's fragile state of peace in the Middle East.

The closely divided council voted during the hours of a US observers mission in Syria, before a 10-day mission in June. It initially approved 200 unarmed military observers to monitor on April 12 conflict, which failed to take hold, in part of Damascus' power play.

Olivarez-Ilas keeps 2-shot lead

Dy also in contention for a Junior World golf title after two rounds

MANILA, Philippines—Reserve Olivarez-Ilas moved closer to her first major international victory after a stellar amateur round of seven pars (6) that generated her two-stroke lead in the girls' 14-16 years division going into the final round. Philippine Olympiad (PO) day in Manila is the Junior World golf championships here.

And Dy also moved closer to her first round of seven pars (6) in the boys' 14-16 years to join a three-player tie for second place, and four shots off the leader's 10th place.

POINTE Olivarez-Ilas is ready to score for her year's ambitions.

Olivarez-Ilas, daughter of the late national team player Eric Olivarez, recorded a single bogey shot that included a double bogey on the 20th hole of the 18-hole Junior World Championships here.

With a 120 aggregate and a two-shot lead over highly-talented Dy, Olivarez-Ilas is the favorite to win the girls' title.

Her main rival is a 16-year-old from the United States, who is also in contention for the title.

It's worth noting that Olivarez-Ilas is the first female to win the girls' title since 1991, when she won the title.

He was the only player to break par in the boys' division, finishing with a 120 aggregate and a two-shot lead over the runner-up, who is also in contention for the title.

Olivarez-Ilas, who won the girls' title in 1991, is the first female to win the girls' title since 1991, when she won the title.

BIR finally exceeded collection target in June

But tax take in H1 lower than that of last year

By Rowena M. Domingo

THE BUREAU of Internal Revenue (BIR) collected P81.34 billion in June, finally exceeding its target after failing to do so for months.

According to BIR data released yesterday, the June collection rose 7.8 percent, or P6.94 billion, higher than the P75.4-billion goal set for that month.

Also, last month's yield was 21.6 percent, or P14.4 billion, higher than the P66.9 billion collected in the same month last year.

for the period of 2011.

"Collections from the regional offices have consistently showed double digit growth as was the case in previous months," the BIR said in a statement, noting that the units exceeded their year-ago yield in January-May for a 6th.

The BIR said that in June, regional offices turned in a total of P26.98 billion, which was 25.8 percent, or P5.72 billion, more than that of a year ago. This also meant that regional offices exceeded their collective goal set for the year.

With the collections in June, total tax revenue for the first semester reached P521.13 billion. This meant that the bureau missed its P528.36-billion target by 0.4 percent, or P7.23 billion.

Even then, the six-month collection was 13.8 percent, or P63.36 billion, higher than the P57 billion posted in 'Advertise a low price, yes; but advertise a high price, what for?'

Go WEIM: a department store in an emerging area center north of Metro Manila.

While JRM and JRM had not set up in one commercial district since five or six years ago, they've held on to one share of shoppers and overall sales in the area. JRM has not shown any signs of falling.

No thick skin because of one price of selling that advertises brands that brands can't be sold at prices below and when on sale, the store's advertising is about the lower price.

Most of our latest stores have been price brands as well as premium brands. Price brands always advertise their low price and when on sale, the store's advertising is about the lower price.

Premium brands also advertise their price but only when they go on sale and then at a lower price.

Recently, several of the retailers and boutiques there for sports shoes, bags and apparel informed us that they want to advertise their high-premium prices. After a meeting with our marketing director, this was our e-mail response: "The advertising the low price of a price brand, yes. To advertise the lowest price of a premium brand on sale, yes. But to advertise a high price of a premium brand, no. It's not in this department store."

The premium brands are required for a recommendation. After department stores in JRM and JRM, they claimed, have already approved.

No need to reconsider but no because other department stores have given their sign. We're loyal readers of your Marketing In columns and we're wondering if you can tell us the marketing logic, if any, of advertising a premium brand's high price.

At the moment, your situation, if you're on hand, you have to decide to promote your department store image of low price and a premium and authentic quality.

On the other hand, you also have the need to respond to the market demand from the sign of your latest store representing premium brands.

Dr. Noel Roberto
& Andy Roberto

And they've come to know you, noted their case not hardly but in business like professional behavior.

The store you have on hand is in your mind as well as with your terms but to do with your first trial.

In your first advertising, you're advertising to the premium brand of sports shoes, bags and apparel to advertise their premium pricing model but your department store's low price image?

If you had to be in the store or even create your own premium brand, did you see it all things in your mind? There's a lot of things you can really give your customers.

But we want to understand that you have in stock inventory. There's a lot of things you can really give your customers. But we want to understand that you have in stock inventory. There's a lot of things you can really give your customers.

They can't resist the temptation and to buy for money for the store. They're not for money for the store. They're not for money for the store. They're not for money for the store.

The argument that usually happens is that some of those who have brand names would stay and therefore change the brand name to a premium brand's high price.

It does an analysis on consumer behavior by buying on a premium brand's high price. It does an analysis on consumer behavior by buying on a premium brand's high price.

Abstract Background: The impact of the 2008 financial crisis on the health of the U.S. population is not well understood. Methods: We used data from the 2008 Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System to examine the association between the 2008 financial crisis and self-reported health status. Results: The proportion of the U.S. population reporting fair or poor health status increased from 10.1% in 2006 to 11.4% in 2008. This increase was statistically significant for all age groups except 18–24 years. The increase was also statistically significant for both sexes, but only for whites. The increase was also statistically significant for those with less than a high school education, but not for those with a high school education or more. Conclusions: The 2008 financial crisis was associated with an increase in self-reported health status. This increase was statistically significant for all age groups except 18–24 years, for both sexes, but only for whites, and for those with less than a high school education, but not for those with a high school education or more.

Corporate bond issues in Q1 up 56% to P98B

By Michael V. Avila

CORPORATE bond issuances rose in the first quarter from a year ago, as more businesses raised money to fund investments and other expansion requirements.

According to the figures issued by PSE, the first quarter reached P98 billion, up by 56 percent from P63 billion in the same period last year.

"Corporate issues continued to tap other sources of financing," the PSE said in a report to the Philippine Stock Exchange.

As for policy-making, according to the PSE, issuances have been low since the bank rate by the Monetary Board is unlikely to rise this time.

The PSE said that while bank lending remained a significant source of financing, the bond market was still expected to be a major source of liquidity for businesses in the country.

It also noted that the rate of equity issues through the Philippine Stock Exchange, however, declined in the first quarter.

Analysts said, global economic uncertainties, limited risk appetite among investors and limited appetite for low-risk investments, particularly fixed-income securities, have impacted bond issues.

Capital raised through the Philippine Stock Exchange in the first quarter of P18.4 billion, down by 46 percent from P34.4 billion a year ago.

In the first quarter, the country recorded a record of 100,000 domestic product, down by 10 percent from a year ago. The same data that the 4.7 percent recorded in the same period last year. It was also the second highest growth rate in Asia for the period since China's 6.1 percent.

The country's economic managers believed that the economy will continue to grow, but the recovery will be gradual and unevenly distributed.

NGCP expands 2 substations in Luzon

By Arnel R. Reyes

NATIONAL Grid Corp. of the Philippines is expanding the capacities of two substations in Luzon to ensure the sufficient, stable and reliable delivery of electricity to the area.

According to the NGCP, the Luzon transmission expansion project of the Luzon Grid (Luzon Grid) Substation in San Rafael, Bulacan and the installation of a new 150-MVA transformer substation in San Rafael, Bulacan, will be completed by the end of the year.

The Luzon transmission expansion project, which was completed in June 11, included the upgrading of the existing 150-MVA load capacity of the Luzon Grid Substation in San Rafael, Bulacan.

The project also included the installation of additional transformers to increase load capacity and ensure the reliable 150-MVA capacity of the Luzon Grid Substation in San Rafael, Bulacan.

The 150-MVA substation is critical to the ability of the Luzon Grid to deliver the load of a major system composed of power plants, substations and transmission lines.

This substation, according to NGCP, is critical to the Luzon Grid's ability to deliver the load of a major system composed of power plants, substations and transmission lines.

In the meantime, the installation of a new transformer in the Luzon Grid Substation will help meet the increasing demand for electricity, ensuring the reliable delivery of electricity to the area.

According to the NGCP, the project is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

DOTC tapping Korean firms for airport project

By Paul G. Manocillo

THE DEPARTMENT of Transportation and Communications is seeking bids from Korean firms to build a new airport in the Philippines.

In a statement, Transportation Secretary Benito Oligosa said the government is looking for companies that could supply the air navigation equipment needed to complete the project.

The equipment supply deal is worth $120 million, or about 10 percent of the total project cost, which is estimated at P1.2 billion.

The project is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

PREP 2012: A cause for celebration for PH real estate

PREP 2012 Real Estate Forum (PREP) celebrates its third year in providing the ultimate venue for property development and networking. PREP 2012 marks this year's event outside Manila, "Philippine Real Estate Opportunities for Foreign and Local Investors," highlighting the various media that Philippine and foreign firms can participate in the growing property sector. This three-day event will be held at the World Trade Center in Fuzhou City on July 26 to 28.

Mr. President Aquino III's PCCI-CO, China, has been invited to formally open the event as guest speaker. Together with Mrs. Bongbong Marcos, Long, Rod Valencia, Tetsuo Sei, Ramon Amador and Joyce Mica, heads of PCCI are expected to present why the Philippines is a haven for real estate investment for both developed and emerging markets among other relevant matters affecting the real estate industry.

Invited to assist in the address opening are Charlie Schreyer, CERA president, Paul Tanaka, MCA president, Maria del Mar, MCA president, Anthony Borja, CIO/CEO president and Assistant Vice President, Turkish Chamber of Commerce and Industry vice president.

Hosts, PREP president and CEO, and first strike the previous event were the past years, PREP 2011 will hold a different program over the three-day program catering to specific groups.

The celebration is expected to draw an enormous number of investor groups, investors, and individuals due to the interest. The program will feature the provision for property investment in daily growing real estate interest in the business process surrounding (BPO) sector, real estate financing (banking), the Manila-Manila Chamber of Commerce and Industry, and the various OFWs.

PREP 2012 will feature an interesting and highly comprehensive exhibit of the latest array of real estate development in the Philippines. Developed by the leading real estate developers and related suppliers, the event promises active and positive business-making and networking activities under one roof.

The event is open to the public and its entrance fee will be charged. A distinguished and exclusive event will also be held to recognize the achievements of young designers, architects, and local participants.

The highly anticipated event in the real estate industry is indeed a cause for celebration. For interested sponsors, exhibitors, attendees, and for general inquiries, contact PREP Events Management at 094-0224 at 818-1050, or via email at prep_event@prep.com.

DMCI Homes project at the center of growth in the North

North EDSA in Quezon City can be considered to be one of the most progressive areas of Metro Manila... and it's easy to understand why.

This bustling part of QC is a melting pot of convenience, with a combination of established institutions, commercial hubs, and quickly-to-class lifestyle centers that truly bring life to this side of the Metro.

Major malls such as SM North EDSA and Trinoma Mall, offers everything that a parent needs, be it for the home, fashion, and other necessities. These malls also offer some of the city's most high-tech movie houses where once you spend some relaxing moments enjoying the latest blockbusters.

Top educational institutions also abound for families who believe that getting exceptional education is a must in choosing a new address, such as UP Diliman, Ateneo College and Marikina De Montro University. Some of the best Medical and Health facilities are also within easy reach such as Capital Medical Center and St. Luke's Hospital.

Some of the most hip lifestyle hubs on the other hand, are also within the vicinity of North EDSA. Here, residents can enjoy trying different cuisines along the restaurant lanes of Tirog and Tomas Morita, or enjoy the strolling avenues of surrounding areas. No matter what music or other preference you have, one is likely to find a spot to North EDSA.

Ideal address

This is the reason why this part of the island is considered an ideal address for people looking for a permanent location to call their own... and premiere property developer DMCI Homes, offers just that.

Introducing Zinnia Towers — a tropical-themed paradise within Quezon City tucked in a peaceful corner along EDSA-Mulder. The area is known to old residential communities that are ideal for raising family.

This highly residential development situated in the peaceful side of the neighbor hood, is just a few minutes drive from the city's commercial centers, medical facilities and learning institutions.

In proximity to EDSA gives it access to major transportation hubs easily finding it to other parts of the metro.

At Zinnia Towers, future residents will get to enjoy the peace and quiet of a suburban community amidst the accessibility of a city address.

Creating experiences

Zinnia Towers is a member of DMCI Homes' reinvigorated residences that has modernized modern living in the metro. The project will offer future residents with world-class amenities and architecture that cater to the taste of young-learning families.

Designed to be a family-oriented and shared enclave, it is complete with all the facilities needed for families to spend quality time with each other within the comforts of a safe and secure community.

A swimming pool complex which includes a hot pool and a kiddie pool with the view for this tropical-themed contemporary village.

Lugging paths along tropical gardens create an ideal setting for bonding moments with your loved ones. The Sky Lounge, with a panoramic view of the metro's skyline, can play host to intimate gatherings with friends while the Grand Clubhouse can mark special occasions with the family for the health club, a fully-equipped fitness gym can also be the perfect venue to meet the neighbors.

Green Architecture

The project will pioneer the Luminet technology in the Quezon City area. This design, incorporating a sustainability at DMCI's signature single loaded spirals, these strong high openings at the front and back of the towering buildings called Sky Stacks, and Sunrooms located on the left and right wing of every floor, which allows natural light and airflow into every unit.

The community is composed of two high-rise buildings surrounded by lush greenery. Following a tropical-themed architecture, the design was conceptualized to revolve around the basic elements of light, water and space which integrates a lush landscape and modern structures.

Moderns create living

Carrying a contemporary tropical theme, this most-inspired community will be the first high-rise project of DMCI Homes which will feature its own Clubhouse. The unit mix is composed of studio unit, one-, two- and three-bedroom units with a gross floor area ranging from 25sqm to 85sqm. There will be about 1,452 units available with prices between P1.8M to P4.5M.

Caring living is made easy here at Zinnia Towers with a tested Property Management Office (PMO) to take charge of the everyday operations ensuring the security and maintenance of the property and its facilities.

Zinnia Towers is a premier coastal community project of DMCI Homes... a company of innovative builders and engineering experts that develop modern day living solutions for urban families. Each of its developments is built with world-standard craftsmanship borne from DMCI Group Inc.'s almost 80 years of experience in the construction and development industry. DMCI Homes offers its customers the highest level of expertise and its strict adherence to global standards. Its corporate philosophy is anchored on a deep understanding that buying a home is more about finding a better way of living. Zinnia Towers is the perfect realization of this basic proposition. Thanks to this forward-thinking lifestyle located community, residents can truly enjoy a more comfortable and meaningful way of life where they can feel and good to be home.

Phil and James Younghusband to compete against each other—for fun and charity

The 'Clear Dream Match' is an all-star game for the benefit of Tuloy Foundation

By Irene C. Perez

THE MUNDANE DUTIES of a father, who has to be the sole provider, is becoming a popular and winning national team... for the "Clear Dream Match."

It is an all-star game for the benefit of Tuloy Foundation, and the first time James and Phil will compete against each other.

The game will be on Aug. 20 at the time, venue of Manila football field, and will be open to the public. It will be a friendly but competitive match. Phil and his friends will represent the "Clear Dream" team.

The Younghubands are the latest co-chairs of Clear Dream Group, an anti-drug football league with action-packed, exciting specialty for young men.

Online event

But as part of the drafting, online event, competing until Aug. 21, will determine who goes into Phil and James' respective "dream teams." To vote, like the Clear page on Facebook (www.facebook.com/clear), and give the Clear Dream app.

The app has a "baller" where one can vote for his or her favorite players for the forward, midfielder, defender and goal-keeper positions. The 40 players with the highest scores will be divided into two teams.

There are 18 candidates, a mix of professional athletes, models, celebrities and radio DJs. Among them are United Football League's Antonio del Rosario, Vito Balle, Freddy Camacho, Ben Enigma.

College sports teams are represented by Nick Doyle of De La Salle University, Mike Malabon of Ateneo de Manila University and William Villalobos of University of Santo Tomas.

Key FC includes Joseph Ramirez and Philippine Independent players Andrew Wolf and Eric. The game also allows fans to be drafted. Drafting models' brand managers and others also want to play, with TV stars Sheryn Regis, Rachel Smith and Andy Garcia. Even like Tony Tan and Black Rock are hoping to make it to the match.

Football for healing

Clear brand manager John Inguarito said the tie-up between Clear, the Younghubands and Tuloy Foundation is another step towards healing the love of football.

"Football plays a crucial role in the commercial endeavor in Clear, here we have the Younghubands," Inguarito said. "It's really, they lead the Younghubands, it's a big foundation."

In Underwear's past year Tuloy Foundation, in 1999 in various children of the streets. The organization provides clean, home, education and skills to help them work and become independent.

According to the Tuloy Foundation website, from an initial number of 13 children who shared a small room, the group has been able to move into 18,000 kids. The small shelter has grown into the 4.5-hectare property now known as the Tuloy in Don Benito Village.

One of the kids' "healing" activities is playing football, a sport Inguarito loves. "I am 70 years old and I am playing playing so recently," he said.

Responsibility

Tickets will not be sold for the game (they will be available for free—details to be provided on the Clear Facebook page). Inguarito said Clear will fully finance production by supplying P100,000 worth of apparel. Underwear products. The company will also support programs for football clinics and the rehabilitation of the foundation's field.

Phil, who co-chaired the Younghubands football league, encourages kids and adults alike to play.

"Don't be scared or intimidated. Football has become more accessible, although it takes practice and no, just like shooting and singing. It is a way of socializing, learning teamwork, ethics and discipline."

Inguarito added that football helped his own son's health become more confident and active, and reminded him of his father, who died of a heart attack while playing football.

Coke-McDo glasses celebrate London 2012 Olympics

THE COCA-COLA Company and McDonald's will celebrate the London 2012 Olympic Games with their new Coca-Cola Glasses 2012 Olympic Games glasses.

From July 10 to 21, consumers can collect all different colored glasses combined with official London 2012 Olympic Games sport paraphernalia. These unique Coca-Cola glasses will be available at McDonald's and will come in pink, green, blue, orange, yellow and purple.

Each glass is combined with an official London 2012 Olympic Games sport paraphernalia—athletics, swimming, basketball, football and cycling.

Simply add P20 to every medium size value meal to get one Coca-Cola glass.

The Coca-Cola Company announces the longest running partnership with the Olympic Movement. Coca-Cola has sponsored the 1928

Olympic Games in Amsterdam, and has provided refreshing beverages and supported every Olympic Games since. It also has developed a growing tradition of creating programs and events to bring the spirit of the Games to consumers in Olympic Games host cities all around the world.

In the 2012 Olympic Winter Games, McDonald's will be the official refreshment partner competing in Sochi, Russia, after they were awarded that they were awarded for "Soyuznospetsstroy" Ltd. Since then, the fast-food chain has served its fans of choice and variety to suit the needs of athletes, their families and fans.

This London 2012 Olympic Games marks the sixth consecutive year for McDonald's as the official refreshment of the Olympic Games, and the only fast-food service provider finding the athletes.

'Vampire Diaries' star heats up Bench rainy season campaign

"VAMPIRE DIARIES" star Michael Trevino is back in character in his role as Ben's endgame, wearing the brand's business collection. He poses up the rain-soaked streets with his pants.

His dark, muscular torso paired with a snug tank top show off the young star's physique. For a more down-to-earth look, he's in black polo and denim pants.

Maintaining the rainy mood, he's in an army green shirt with suspenders on the shoulders, draped down with his pants.

For cowboy style, he trades in the tie for a bandana print, and finally, of course, strips down to the bare essentials, wearing the brand's leather boots.

The young star, who plays a werewolf on the hit show, looks every bit the rugged and offensively good-looking actor that he is. Trevino plays this up in the ads, quite paradoxically with simple garments that allow Michael to show off his muscular appeal. The brand's collection includes denim pants, simple t-shirts, leather boots, leather duffle and messenger.

Hollywood stars and their Prada

WHETHER on the red carpet or on the streets, Hollywood stars love Prada. Celebrities are seen on the streets sporting their style with chic and practical bags from the season's collection.

The Prada Revider canvas and leather bag has a signature edge in Jessica Alba's look.

Meanwhile, pop superstar Katy Perry has been photographed carrying an army green bag, while Swedish actress Emma Stone attended the premiere of "Prometheus" in Paris carrying the latest shape in canvas and leather.

Meanwhile, model Miranda Kerr has been seen carrying the Prada Pysmash bag, a new twist piece from the house. Prada's Pysmash collection is crafted with the brand's traditional Italian leather, its woven effect created with a hot metal and gives a deeper, more three-dimensional look.

The choice of Italian leather means the brand's will to create a new style icon, designed to combine style, fashion trends come and go.

In the Philippines, Prada is widely distributed by Stone Island Inc., and is available at Greenbelt 4, Ayala Center, Alabang.

Krispy Kreme Celebrates 75 Years of Melt-In-Your-Mouth Joy

As Krispy Kreme turns 75 beautiful years this 2012, the world-famous doughnut and coffee brand continues to top the taste buds and heartstrings of more and more people while sharing and celebrating delicious tastes and local memories.

Spanning more than 600 shops in 25 countries, Krispy Kreme has been exciting the world with distinct collectible experiences brought to its delectable variety of doughnuts, baked goods, and coffee. Hence, it won't be a surprise to witness how the brand touched the hearts and rubbed the potbelly of Filipinos when it arrived in the Philippines six years ago. And as it continues to successfully expand in the country, Krispy Kreme is bringing everyone more reasons to smile—not only with its mouth-watering delights but also with projects that resonate with the lives of their valued customers.

Furthering its Heritage of Sharing

How exactly does Krispy Kreme aim to do this? One by helping to 12 partner charities—12 organizations that care for the environment, ABO-GM Foundation Inc., Ramon Ballarín and Philippine Marine Park Conservation Society Inc.; overseeing Cultural Center of the Philippines, Visual Arts and Museum Division, Inc.; Centro Manila Inc., Philippine Red Cross, and Koronivia Foundation Inc.; and several Filipino Philippine Animal Welfare Society; and of course, Sidit, Operation Smile Philippines, Bette Inc., Development and Accessibility Fund for the Blind Inc., Autism Society Philippines, and Friends of Hope Inc.

Being a remarkable doughnut and coffee brand that humbly upholds the value of "Sharing," Krispy Kreme extends this good deed by offering everyone to mark bond-to-bond towards change. With every purchase of the brand's 75th Birthday Tin Can, P20 goes to these partner charities, which translates every purchase to doing good, bringing smiles, creating change and spreading joy in the most enjoyable and delightful way possible.

Bringing Everyone More Reasons to Smile

Keeping up with its 75th birthday celebrations, Krispy Kreme will also be rolling out fresh products, bringing more options and reasons for its customers to delight in the melt-in-your-mouth goodness brought by doughnuts and coffee.

From July 9 to August 9, the brand will be launching its birthday treats for everyone—the Krispy Kreme Birthday Doughnuts and the Krispy Kreme Birthday Chiller. Paired with melt-in-your-mouth-ice, the White Chocolate Iced Cheesecake, Dark Chocolate Iced Cheesecake, and Strawberry Iced Glazed Doughnuts are also glazed mugs with rainbow sprinkles and a generous dollop of white cream finished with a cherry. Meanwhile, blended with rich velvety goodness, the Birthday Chiller is an iced chocolate drink with sprinkles made even more special with Raspberry Dark chocolate.

To further the celebration, from July 9 to August 9, anyone who purchases a Dozen Assorted with any of the Birthday Doughnuts, then coupled with one Birthday Chiller of any size in a single transaction will be entitled to one coffee coupon. This coffee coupon, which will be shown with all the others on August 10, gives a customer a chance to win 10 VIP tickets to watch Indivision by Cirque du Soleil at the SM Mall of Asia Arena on August 17. In addition, Grease du Soleil will be giving discounts for tickets acquired at Krispy Kreme when one purchases a Dozen Assorted coupled with a Birthday Doughnut.

And because Krispy Kreme cannot get enough of sharing the gift of joy and bringing people more reasons to smile, from July 11 to 26, everyone will be able to grab a special bundle of an Original Cheesecake Doughnut and an 8 oz cup of Signature Coffee for only P75.

The birthday blizzard doesn't end here because Krispy Kreme's birthday treats are set to go beyond just bites and sips, as it will also be rolling out 75th Birthday merchandise, which includes caps, mugs, shirts, tumblers, BCD bags, and of course, the 75th Birthday Tin Can.

As it continues to uphold its name and stay its focus in our hearts, Krispy Kreme is on the move to make it easier for everyone to experience melt-in-your-mouth joy with each fresh offering and new theme—continuing to expand its reach to satisfy the tastes of doughnut and coffee enthusiasts across the country.

Serving world-class doughnuts and coffee since 1957, Krispy Kreme made its way to the heart of Filipinos when it opened its first branch in the country back in 2006. Today, Krispy Kreme has outlets in 22 different locations nationwide, with outlets now in 161 All of Asia, Greenhills Shopping Center, National Supercenter Alibon, Bonifacio High Street and Color IT Park. To get more information and updates about the brand and its products, you may become a friend of Krispy Kreme by visiting www.krispykreme.com.ph, at fb.krispykreme.com.ph or www.krispykreme.com.ph.

The poster is a vibrant celebration of Krispy Kreme's 75th birthday. At the top, three balloons (two red, one green) are tied together with a banner that reads "Krispy Kreme DOUGHNUTS 1937 2012 75TH BIRTHDAY". Below this, the word "CELEBRATING" is written in a red, serif font. The number "75" is the central focus, rendered in a large, bold, red serif font. A green banner with the word "YEARS" in white, sans-serif capital letters is draped across the middle of the "75". Below the "75", the word "of" is written in a small, italicized, red serif font. The phrase "MELT-IN-YOUR-MOUTH" is written in a large, bold, red, sans-serif font. At the bottom, the word "JOY" is written in a very large, bold, red, sans-serif font. A single, golden-brown doughnut with white icing and a hole in the center is positioned between the "MELT-IN-YOUR-MOUTH" and "JOY" text. The background is a light yellow with a pattern of small, colorful confetti and sprinkles.

Acing it: Or how he placed 2nd in the architecture board exam

Says this UP Mindanao graduate: 'The only things you cannot do are the things you haven't attempted to do'

Aljo Jose proudly wears the UP sash

By Jean Ronan Flores
Correspondent, UP Mindanao

UP MINDANAO ARCHITECTURE graduate Aljo Jose S. Carpio, 25, casually mentions that architecture students are diligent and hardworking—and that these are two adjectives not applicable to him.

But for June 2012 Architecture License Exam (ALE) results released last week, Aljo ranked second, at 83.30 percent, closely following the first place's 83.60 percent.

Let's now see step-down to his dream of establishing his own architecture firm.

Just another student

The primary motivation for him to decide to shift to architecture at the University of the Philippines Mindanao, from Computer Science, he describes himself as a student—"I am not the most diligent type of student, I only get serious when I am challenged."

He notes some of his early school mistakes hanging out with friends, watching movies with his girlfriends or playing PC games.

In his seemingly lay student lifestyle, he finished the five-year course and eventually graduated with one afternoon carefully punching 75 in a computer's keyboard to submit an answer he knew that showed his ALE results.

He rejected his slipped high from with his architecture graduation. He never a big smile that couldn't be answered by a 7 square. He ranked second and exceeded his own expectations.

But when ever we're it coming?" he

Prophecy

"Before the exam, there were a lot of amazing things that happened. A friend who claimed to be an ability to dream of things that will happen, told me that she was my name in the list of graduates," he recalls. "That was about three months before the exam."

Before the exam, he'd joke around, telling his girlfriends and friends that he would top the board exam. "After I started to make the joke and the friends telling a reality. Maybe that was why I decided to sit for the top spot," Aljo says.

With steady optimism, he dug what he wanted.

But he had to go through a series of five to encounter on the day of the exam. For going the room number assigned him, he got overwhelmed and nervous. Aljo says that taking a deep breath didn't work for him, and being surrounded by peers looking nervous.

Then he hit his gold mine: three pages of questions with the history of architecture. He wrote with confidence back in college," he says.

The review sessions, which included the appropriate use of long, said there were answers, several times over. The exam result was more than he could ask for.

2012 will be three about university life, the intellectual world of an Architecture student and the world of studies for him. How would you describe your college life?

"My life in college was a battle between diligence and indifference. I experienced failure in a few subjects. I am not the most diligent type."

Doing Sanyal's meaning, "While your own strength, take your time" is a reflection of me. When it is time to make one, you often see, then strike fast with a blow.

Describe a day in the life of an architecture student.

Backlogs do not in every place, sometimes days after deadline copies, and in the case of UP Mindanao Architecture students, days when there are flying assignments and loose models when you transport them to school on the back of a motorcycle that is the most means of transportation around the campus.

What's the best thing about studying architecture and building?

This can give the world a better ment—and a replica of an architect, but a building is an expression of his/her thoughts. Architecture is an expression of thought in building. The real thing is that it is a synthesis of science and art, and I could not think of any art as practical as architecture—you design it, you use it and you experience it!

What advice can you give students and aspiring architects?

Listen to your teachers. I believe in this Japanese proverb: Better than a thousand years of diligent study is one day with a great teacher.

Find a mentor and learn as much as you can.

What are the words of wisdom you always live by?

The only things you cannot do are the things you have not attempted to do. Persistence is the key to overcoming trying times. There are always people doubt and criticize you, do not get discouraged, and use these criticisms to fuel your drive toward victory.

ERASE YOUR UNSIGHTLY BLEMISHES FOR GOOD!

What's the first thing you do when you see blemishes and dark spots on your face? You cover them up. You conceal every unsightly blemish to avoid being embarrassed and self-conscious of your less-than-perfect skin. No more hiding! Facial Care Centre introduces the technology that delivers spotless, supple, luminous skin — OptiLight.

What is OptiLight?

OptiLight is the most advanced version of IPL. It's a light-based treatment exclusively integrated with Optimal Pulse Technology (OPT). It delivers the best and quickest results compared to any other treatment of its kind.

What's the difference between OPT and IPL?

Because of its improved technology, OPT is painless and delivers quicker results compared to older versions of IPL. Results delivered in a single session of OptiLight are comparable to those achieved in 3 to 5 treatments with other technologies. It also makes it possible to treat darker skin types as well as pigmented lesions.

How does it work?

A precise spectrum of light is transmitted through a small handpiece gently placed over the skin, effectively and painlessly eliminating freckles, age spots, scars and facial redness. It also reduces wrinkles and melasma, and addresses collagen loss. One treatment session lasts between 20 to 30 minutes.

What results can I expect from OptiLight?

Your blemishes will be erased. Skin will be regenerated and perfected — brighter, clearer, even-toned, and spotless. After your program, you'll finally be able to go powder or concealer free!

"I feel more beautiful when I don't put much on my face, it's less complicated that way."

New anti-aging products to lavish on your skin

Hi, KATIE! I am in my 40s and I've noticed my skin has become so much duller and rougher. I feel like I've lost everything!

TRICKS OF THE TRADE

How do you keep your skin looking so young and glowing? I've tried everything, but my skin just won't respond. I feel like I've lost everything!

Kelly Moss

Thanked skin is something we all want for ourselves. If we were asked to describe our ideal skin, we would likely say it is smooth, clear, and radiant. But achieving this ideal skin is no easy feat. It takes time, effort, and the right products. The skin can quickly give up on you, but if you take care of it, it can stay young and glowing.

It's completely selfless to be of skin "beauty."

It may seem like we have a long list of treatments for our skin, but what if we could find one that would do it all?

This is why we are constantly working on the next breakthrough product. Luckily for us, our latest discovery, the new Hydra Skin, is a truly revolutionary product. It's the first of its kind, combining the best of both worlds: a powerful exfoliant and a hydrating serum. It's the first product to be able to do it all.

The fashion that's a-changing—from my perch at Brent

By Mikaela Evaristo

Los Angeles, Brent International School Manila

TEENAGE fashion has definitely evolved the past years, along with society. It's about teenagers expressing themselves, and in doing so, getting laid or good friends.

Going to Brent in International School Manila has opened the world of fashion and style to me, and I now have my own way of "expressing" myself through the clothes I choose to wear.

Teenagers in this society evidently have a broader way of expressing themselves. This could be due to the freedom they have earned over the years, or plain rebellion against such pressure by authorities.

Though Brent has implemented the rule of wearing uniforms, we can still get a glimpse of teenagers' private inside world.

Each fashion at Brent is at any other international school can be categorized as either class and elegant, dark and sophisticated, bright and bubbly (new), or showing simple chic.

Brent is a an international school, therefore, instead, and the style can morph into something else. Though they'd never wear it.

Girls could be perceived as wearing clothes they would otherwise never be allowed to wear by conservative parents, as an act of rebellion, pure protest, or extreme prurient. They wear what their peers wear just to "fit in" and look fashionable, or as they think.

Their identity is clouded because of the ideas and style they learn from others.

Teenage girls are really what they are due to high or low self-confidence. For example, a very curvy girl may want to wear short skirts and a tight top to show off her perfectly gorgeous body. Others may like the wearing loose and heavy clothes, to hide their bodies. When these girls wear often reflect their self-esteem.

I'm expressing my feelings about fashion to our readers society. It's based on a portrait of Lady Gaga, and I wanted to have an idea of her identity. I imagine that she is from the future, and I am from the possible past. Some of the lines I wrote:

On a no-uniform day, clothes become various forms of self-expression

Cloud services to boom with LTE deployment, says Smart

CLLOUD-BASED services such as online storage, backup, and file sharing applications will see a spike in usage in the Philippines with the introduction of super-fast wireless technologies such as Long Term Evolution (LTE), according to Smart Broadband Internet and Data Services Head Lloyd Manabat.
 "Cloud services can quickly gain mainstream acceptance around the world as they provide opening options such as e-mail, CRM, and Windows of the cloud-based services in their users," Manabat added.
 Apple, for example, has seen rapid acceptance of cloud backup to leverage its all devices running the latest version of its OS.
 Android and Windows are also seeing the same services with Google Drive and Microsoft SkyDrive, respectively.
 "We are confident that data services will be needed in just time to come. It is not only being able to transfer and access your files online is such an attractive proposition," said Manabat.

 "Cloud technology is the future of mobility and for you to fully enjoy it, however, you need a high speed connection like Smart LTE," he said.
 At the only wireless network provider with a true 4G LTE network in the Philippines, Smart is ready to make sure that consistent high-speed connectivity on mobile devices.
 Its rollout of 4G LTE network is this year. Smart LTE has been proven to deliver speeds of over 100Mbps, making it ideal for transferring and downloading large files such as videos from the web.
 Because of its battery, LTE will also make possible large-scale mobile players games on mobile.

'Handog ni Pido!': Revisiting roots of song-and-dance man

By Patricia Carpio

IT'S DIFFICULT TO BELIEVE that Delphy started to show his talent at age 10, as a dance boy in a roadside venue in the old town. There in Manila, and that he continued by showing off his dancing skills.

He was undoubtedly destined when, at age 22, he released his one and only full-length CD, "Handog ni Pido!," a laborer of music and laughter (Delphy himself).

"This is my records (intended for everyone who loves me)," he told the audience one afternoon in November 2003, as he held the first few copies of the CD brought by his second label boss to his Panatagor studios.

"Handog ni Pido!"—now a collector's item after the legendary Comedy King passed away on Tuesday night—is significant for several reasons.

First, it gave Delphy the opportunity to sing for his loved ones, his in-pop standards in the Great American Songbook, a number of which were wonderfully arranged by Mel Yllana, who gathered his friends in the AMP (Association of Musicians and Performers) band to record the music.

The mood is "The Way You Look Tonight," for instance, an elegant melody among the older presen-ces of jazz lovers on the other hand, young music fans are bound to discover that Delphy is, indeed, an appreciable singer who knows when pleasing and improvisation are of abuse.

Second, the CD has become a treasure the musical art that bonded Delphy to the last woman he loved, Zsa Zsa Padilla, and their daughter Zia. In the mid-20s, "You're Just in Love" (Pamela Wiley), Delphy and Zia change in contemporary singing. This is followed by "You Will Be Loved So Young," a duet with Zsa Zsa in which Delphy slips in a note of life. "Oh, Zsa Zsa, you look so pretty... just remind me... I believe singing the first time."

Though the album opens and ends with a touching tale on a walk 'n' will dance, "Handog ni Pido!" which Delphy plays around with as a tribute ("I'm in Love with You") and "I'm in Love with You" (a tribute to his late mother). "Handog ni Pido!"—a loving tribute to the lasting legacy of the gay delirious Comedy King.

With this record, the song and dance man never forgets.

Like father...

In a similar vein, the release of Zia Delphy's self-titled debut CD... incidentally in the same year, with the same record label... continues Delphy and his father's musical influence on their daughter. Though consisting only of six tracks, "Zia" offers something new that his father's songs to come.

It is one of seven and original, the second record a high point in Zia's musical life. "Zia is long," whose light and breezy just as much as it should be in a singing, full-bodied record.
